QUERIES ON CHINA AND JAPAN." EXTRACTS FROM REVIEWS.

(From the "Strasts Times," July 27, 1868.) Some time ago we had occasion to remark upon the progress that Literature as represented by the Press had made and was inaking in the East, and our attention has again been called to the subject by the receipt of a Hongkong publication which deserves some notice and which we have much pleasure in introducing to the knowledge of our readers. We allude to Notes and Queries on China and Japan, published monthly by Mr Saint, the proprietor of the China Mail newspaper. This publication is well printed on good paper, and in size and shape is very like its well-known namesake or prototype at home, and is equally a mine containing very curious and useful information regarding the language, literature, history, manners and customs of the hinese and in a less degrée of the Japanese. It says a good deal for the extent and stability of the footing of Europeans in China, that such a publication as this should be established and conducted with apparently successful vigour.

The publication is altogether a very interesting one, and wishing it every success, we commend it to the attention and support of our readers.

(From the "Friend of India," June 4, 1868.) We acknowledge with thanks the receipt of the numbers for the current year of 'Notes and Queries," a most deserving Anglo-Chinese monthly, edited by Mr N. B. Dennys, whose "Treaty Ports of China and Japan" are so well known. From the immes attached to the "Notes" we can see that the contributors include some of the best Chinese scholars in the East. Its interest is not confined to China, and it will be of valuable assistance to all scholars, who have directed their attention towards the subject of Buddhism and its literature, and enerally to all who are interested in oriental antiquities. It deserves to be better

Author's Preface.

Most persons whose avocations or studies are connected even remotely with Chinese subjects are wont to confess the need of a convenient manual of reference for the purpose of determining dates according to either the European or the Chinese method of computation; and a system of comparison for the names attributed to years, months, and other periods is also frequently a desideratum with translators and readers of Chinese literature. The compiler of the following tables has thought, accordingly, that their publication in convenient form may prove useful, although much yet remains to be done for the elabo ration of comparative calendars, etc. that should leave nothing to be desired. With the exception of the Cyclical Table of Morrison, and afterwards republished with improvements in Williams' Commercial Guide, from which (with some alteration) they are now copied, the whole of the matter assembled in the following pages is for the first time made accessible to general

ANOTHER REFUSAL

OUR North China contemporaries express "regret" that the Taotai of Shanghai refuses to entertain a proposition recently made by the Commissioner of Maritime Customs, with the strong approval of the foreign Cousuls and the Chamber of Commerce, to proceed with the construction of a telegraphic line between Shanghai and the Kintoan beacon. We should have thought that both the Commissioner and his backers had by this time arrived at somewhat clearer prudent proposition would imply. How in the face of the repeated refusals already given to any proposal of the kind, of the openly expressed hostility of the country people, and of the recent policy of the British Government, which has been could expect that any demand of such a nature would be complied with, it is beyond our power to divine. It has now refused permission" to the barbari as to construct a telegraph, and another stone is added to the load of contempt with which foreign efforts to induce progress are regarded by the great unwashed of Central China. Strenuous advocates as we are of the establishment of telegraphic communication, we cannot therefore feel thankful to those who have again subjected us to a snub from the impertinent and anti-progressive Taotai. There is of course one point of view from which we may take comfort, but it rather resembles that said to have been urged by some of the Committee of the Hongkong Association, who objected to attempting any hindrance to the present policy of the Imperial Government on the ground that it must eventually provoke war, and that war in China would improve business in Hongkong, In Wellington, 22nd April, 1869. Since the publication of the Notice to Mariners with reference to the Snag in the fairway of the North Channel of the Buller giver, dated the 7th of the present month, information has been received that the Channel has worked farther to the North-East, so that the sailing directions then published are no longer correct.

Vessels entering in daylight must keep the flagstaff and the beacon carrying the red flag (which is only hoisted at tide time). in one, and failing this, they must be steered in close accordance with the directions of the semaphore arm at the flagstaff, As the Channel shifts so rapidly, no directions can be given for entering by night; and only masters who are so thoroughly acquainted with the Port and the local signals, as to be able to take it without special directions, would be justified in attempting it.

Scientific.—It is said that a certain unaptured bush-ranger is called "Thunderbolt" because he leads such a shocking life. THE "COOLIE TRADE" IN THE OUTH Pagirio.-Call it by what emphonious name we may, it is now evident that the transference of natives from the islands of the Pacifie to Australian plantations is nothing more nor less than a revival of the slave trade. This fact once made clear, there is no occasion for strong writing in an English community. The hatred of slavery in all its forms is so ingrained in the heart of every honest Englishman that he is more likely to err on the side of severity than leniency in dealing with persons proved to be guilty of perpetrating, aiding, or abetting slave truffic. A Melbourne schooner, known as the Daphue, has been captured by H. M. S. Rosario, with 100 natives on board, suspected to have been kidnapped from the Banks group of islands; and she is being brought on to Sydney for adjudication. In respect to her, and all who can be shown to have assisted in her operations, no doubt justice will be done; but is it not now apparent that the excuse for this traffic afforded by recent legislation in a neighbouring colony must at ouce be removed i Under no system of restriction or supervision which can be devised can heartless traders be trusted with merchandise of this description, and if certain kinds of produce cannot be grown in Australia without the introduction of the helpless and hopeless class of labourers, Australia must be content to leave them uncultivated. It is monstrous to presume that these poor ignoraant naked savages are willing emigrants; and even if this could be demonstrated, who can venture to be responsible for their receiving humans treatment at the hands of the reckless traders and masters who gain possession, of them? The traffic is one not to be argued over, but to be promptly suppressed.— Australasian, May 29. A FLYING FROG. —One of the most ou-rious and interesting reptiles which I met with in Borneo was a large tree-frog, which was brought me by one of the Chinese workmen. He assured me he had seen it come down in a slanting direction, from a high tree, as if it flew. On examining it I found the toes very long and fully webbed to their very extremity, so that when expanded thep offered a surface much larger than the body. The fore legs were also bordered by a membrane, and the body was capably of comsiderable inflation. The back and limbs were of a very deep shining green colour, the under surface and the inner toes yellow, while the webs were black, rayed with yellow. The body was about four inches long, while the webs of each hind foot, when full expanded covered a surface of four square inches, and the webs of all the feet together about twelve square inches. As the extremities of th toes have dilated disks for adhesion. showing the creature to be a true tree-frog. it is difficult to imagine that this immense membrane of the toes can be for the purpose of swimming only, and the account of the Chinaman, that it flew down from the tree, becomes more credible. This is, I believe, the first instance known of a "flying frog," and it is very interesting to Darwinians as showing, that the variability of the toes which have been already modified for purposes of swimming and adhesive climbing, have been taken advantage of to enable an allied species to pass through the air like the flying lizard. It would appear to be a new species of the genus Rhacophorus. which consists of several frogs of a much smaller size than this, and having the webs and leaves again for Tientsin to-morrow hill light shows white on a N.W. by W. of the toes less developed.—The Malay Archipelago, By Alfred Russell Wallucs.

THE REPORTED LOSS OF THE JOSEPHINE'N. G. SHIP. We (Straits Observer) have been favored with the copy of the translation of the report of the loss of a vessel called the osephine, said to be German, bound from Saigon and Johore Baros to Calentta. The account reads like a tale of the Arabian Nights. The Captain, officers and crew are swallowed up by one vast wave, the ship striking on an unknown rock, near Horaburg Lighthouse (1), goes down, and leaves hind a passenger, a powerful swimmer according to his account, as he must have been at least four hours in the water.
